ST. LOUIS -- United Van Lines, LLC was named a recipient of Intel Corporation's Preferred Quality Supplier (PQS) award for outstanding performance in providing products and services deemed essential to Intel's success. The company was awarded for its efforts in supplying Intel with transportation services. United Van Lines, and 28 additional PQS award winners will be honored at a celebration in Burlingame, Calif., on March 23.

"United Van Lines is greatly honored to again receive the prominent PQS award, just as we appreciate the continued opportunity to work with the Intel Corporation," said Gerry Stadler, United Van Lines chairman of the board. "Our two industry-leading companies share an outstanding relationship, which reflects Intel's well-known adherence to exacting service expectations and our capability to meet those standards, as well as those of all of our customers."

"As Global Transportation and Logistics Outsourcing continued its focus on enhancing customer service within Intel's supply chain, reducing network costs and providing world class distribution services to our stakeholders, UVL again fully supported that focus with their commitment, expertise, operational excellence and cost effective solutions," said Cindie Kienitz, Intel manager, Global Transportation and Logistics Outsourcing. The PQS awards are part of Intel's Supplier Continuous Quality Improvement (SCQI) process that encourages suppliers to strive for excellence and continuous improvement. To qualify for PQS status, suppliers must score 80 percent on a report card that assesses performance and ability to meet cost, quality, availability, delivery, technology and responsiveness goals. Suppliers must also manage and deliver on a challenging improvement plan and a quality systems assessment. Additional information about the SCQI program is available at <http://supplier.intel.com/quality/>.

Intel will also recognize PQS award winners on March 23 with an advertisement in the U.S., Europe and Asian editions of The Wall Street Journal.
